

Our ISP, Sonic.net, is an outstanding example of the American dream in action. Starting in a garage, with brains and imagination and dedication to service, they have grown to a wonderful independent internet service provider that we have used for years. Because of their dedication to good service, we are willing to pay extra to obtain our DSL service through them. We are concerned that the BellSouth petition asking FCC to stop regulating broad band service will give phone companies the power to squeeze out independents like sonic from being able to offer affordable DSL, if granted. Please don't grant BellSouth's petition! Thank you for reading this. BW
